Storm Constantine, Eloise Coquio : Bast and Sekhmet: Eyes of Ra before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Bast and Sekhmet: Eyes of Ra:

9 of 9 people found the following review helpful. Really great book!By blankThis book has fact, myth and ritual--and is well written. Like the previous reviewer, I found that I could not put it down. The book is a beautiful tribute to the roles of Bast and Sekhmet in both ancient (as far as we know) and modern life.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. easily digestible and smoothly flowing from a reading perspective. If you work with either of them I highly recommend this book. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I love it. Helpful for me By bunnyparadise I love it. Helpful for me. Lots of meditations. The information on our personal colors is invaluable. Mine was spot on easily to pinpoint. This book is a treasure for me. I will be returning to it again and again. Many places I have highlighted

This is a unique work on the history and magic of the feline goddesses, Bast and Sekhmet, from the ancient island of majestic splendour and long-held secrets.'

"* 'A clear and scholarly picture of the different personalities of Bast and Sekhmet and their role in Egyptian religion.' Prediction * 'If either Bast or Sekhmet is your matron deity then you simply have to have this book, but it's also great for those who love cats, have a cat, or those who are interested in the Ancient Egyptian religion. This book is highly recommended.' The Firefly's Circle * Illustrated with photographs, drawings and computer-generated visualizations * First time in paperback" About the Author Storm Constantine and Eloise Coquio have been practising pagans for many years. Storm Constantine is a successful fantasy novelist, having had over a dozen books published and numerous short stories. She also runs her own publishing house, Immanion Press. Both Storm and Eloise came to paganism via the Wiccan tradition but through a natural evolution moved towards a more eclectic path. They have worked extensively with Bast and Sekhmet, and were members of a dynamic temple group centred around these goddesses. Both authors live in Stafford: Storm with her husband Jim and nine cats; and Eloise with her partner Steven, their son Rowan and four cats.
