thoughtful research. We need to break out of the blinders that have been forced upon us to understand our own ancient history. Steven and Evan once again help us to do just that with help and approval of the original people of Australia. With their legacy of the oldest continuing culture on the planet it would be foolish, perhaps arrogant, not to listen to the elders' wisdom. Many thanks to all who were a part of this research to be bold enough to challenge the status quo to offer it up to the public. Look for ward to what comes next. 7 of 7 people found the following review helpful. Truth Rises when Paradigms Fall - this book is a sledgehammer for Out of Africa Theory By Bruce Fenton Firstly let me say that I purchased and read an earlier version of this book, as such there may be very slight differences due to updates and improvements carried out, so perhaps now it would be a six-star book! There is no other book out there on this subject, that is the first thing that must be said. If you are looking to understand what is wrong with the Out of Africa Theory on human origins this is THE book that you have been looking for. Steve and Evan have spent many years researching the mythology and history of the [Ab]Original Australian peoples, also communicating directly to elders. This work has brought truly paradigm changing results, their earlier books (with University Press of America) revealed the deep links between Aboriginal Dreaming Lore and almost all spiritual systems that have followed, certainly, these ancient teaching have been shown as foundational to early Christian thought. This is a subject revisited in Out of Australia, but there is much more on offer with this book beyond even this fantastic set of connections. The authors have managed to fit in a great many subjects of huge intrigue, perhaps most notable is the inconsistencies in Out of Africa theory, such as the strangely divergent African and Australian DNA lineages and early dating of Aboriginals vs the dating of the first supposed migration. The book takes us through a wealth of anomalous archaeological sites, skulls that exhibit bizarre morphological features, intriguing Dreaming myths that have shown correlations to recent discoveries, advanced medical science in the palaeolithic period, a long list of firsts for humanity accepted to be Australian, a number of peculiar human forms that walked the ancient Sahul continent and so much more. As a life-long researcher of ancient mysteries, with experience leading research expeditions into the jungle (featured in the UK's Telegraph newspaper) and up into the Georgian Caucasus (Discovery Channel's The Unexplained files), I can tell you with great certainty that you will not find a more exciting adventure than this book, and you can participate in this revelatory quest right from the comfort of your own armchair!

In their startling new book, Steven and Evan Strong challenge the out-of-Africa theory. Based on fresh examination of both the DNA and archeological evidence, they conclude that modern humans originated from Australia, not Africa. The original Australians (referred to by some as Aborigines), like so many indigenous peoples, are portrayed as backward and primitive. Yet, as the Strongs demonstrate, original Australians had a rich culture, which may have sown the first seeds of spirituality in the world. They had the technology to make international seafaring voyages and have left traces in the Americas and possibly Japan, Southern India, Egypt, and elsewhere. They practiced brain surgery, invented the first hand tools, and had knowledge of penicillin. This book brings together 30 years of intensive research in consultation with elders in the original Australian community. Among their conclusions are the following: There is evidence that humans existed in Australia 40,000 years before they existed in Africa. There were migrations of original Australians in large boats throughout the Indian/Pacific rim. Three distinct kinds of Homo sapiens are found in Australia. There is evidence from the Americas that debunks the out-of-Africa theory. The spiritual influence of the Aborigines is reflected in the religions of the world.

Could rewrite world history. Graham Hancock No longer is the theory of creation out of Africa. Its here in Australia with the Originals.
