

[Mobile pdf] Prophet Muhammad: Aspects of His Life 2 (The Infinite Light)

Prophet Muhammad: Aspects of His Life 2 (The Infinite Light)

M. Fethullah Gulen

*DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub*

Download

Read Online

#3995578 in Books Fountain Pub 1998-03-01Ingredients: Example IngredientsOriginal language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.00 x 6.00 x 1.00l, #File Name: 9757388459270 pages | File size: 70.Mb

M. Fethullah Gulen : Prophet Muhammad: Aspects of His Life 2 (The Infinite Light) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Prophet Muhammad: Aspects of His Life 2 (The Infinite Light):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Daily read.By ERIC GURBUZThis book was amazing. I need to read it many more times. 5 stars is not enough!You can read this daily and it would keep you on the right path.8 of 9 people found the following review helpful. May God be pleased with Mr. Gulen's work.By A. TynyshovThis is one of the best books I have ever read, I have known Mr. Gulen as a big scholar for many years, but have never had a chance to read his books, only read some articles based on his works. I am sure the original version of this book must be a real pearl, which is in Turkish (this is the translation of the original version - by Ali Unal). Throughout the book he supports his points with related Surah from Quran, or from Prophet's traditions (Hadith). This was very eye opening for me. I am really amazed by his religious knowledge Mashallah, for that I would like to show my respect. May God be pleased with your works Mr. Gulen and lengthen your life so that we could get more knowledge and books like this from you. I would recommend this book to all the people who would like to know Prophet Muhammad more. This book should be a priority in your list. I cannot wait to read Mr. Gulen's other works. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. information with the soul By tim erickson I'm sure you can find hundreds of books which gives detailed historical information and debates of the Man (pbuh) who most influenced the world. (Either you are a muslim or not this should be accepted as a fact) On the other hand, there are very few resources which focuses on the spirit and soul of this Man's important claim. He came up with a matter which shakes His own centuries beliefs and enlightenes the past and today's world. If you would like to get a better understanding of Prophet Muhammad's message in this century don't miss this invaluable resource. Whether you believe in Him or not I guess He deserves (at least) to be heard.

The awaited Prophet The Divine purpose in sending Prophets Some characteristics of Prophets The essentials of Prophethood Prophet Muhammad as husband and father The Prophet as universal educator The military dimension of Muhammad as universal leader The prophets prayers and supplications, and his universal mercy, mildness and forbearance and other attributes The Sunna of the Prophet The Sunna as a source of legislation The Sunna in the Quran and Hadith The role of the Sunna The establishment of the Sunna The books are a compilation of the sermons which F. Gulen gave every Friday of 1989 to introduce people, especially the young, to Prophet Muhammad, upon him be peace and blessings, in all his aspects. In these two volumes, you will meet the Mercy for all the worlds as Prophet, educator, statesman, commander, sociologist, economist, psychologist, moralist, teacher, orator, preacher, father, husband, and a humble, compassionate, brave, wise, gracious, gentle, and trustworthy member of humanity, and most sincere and beloved servant of God. Also, you will find out how to follow his example, and learn the meaning and establishment of Sunna and its place in Islam.

About the Author Known by his simple and austere lifestyle, Fethullah Gulen, affectionately called Hodjaefendi, is a scholar of extraordinary proportions. This man for all seasons was born in Erzurum, eastern Turkey, in 1941. Upon graduation from a private divinity school in Erzurum, he obtained his license and began to preach and teach about the importance of understanding and tolerance. His social reform efforts have made him one of Turkey's most well-known and respected public figures during the 1960s. Though simple in outward appearance, he is original in thought and action. He embraces all humanity, and is deeply averse to unbelief, injustice, and deviation. His belief and feelings are profound, and his ideas and approach to problems are both wise and rational. A living model of love, ardor, and feeling, he is extraordinarily balanced in his thoughts, acts, and treatment of matters. Turkish intellectuals and scholars acknowledge, either tacitly or explicitly, that he is one of the most serious and important thinkers and writers, and among the wisest activists of twentieth-century Turkey or even of the Muslim world. But such accolades of his leadership of a new Islamic intellectual, social, and spiritual revival a revival with the potential to embrace great areas of the world do not deter him from striving to be no more than a humble servant of God and a friend to all. Desire for fame is the same as show and ostentation, a "poisonous honey" that extinguishes the hearts spiritual liveliness, is one of the golden rules he follows. Gulen has spent his adult life voicing the cries and laments, as well as the beliefs and aspirations, of Muslims in particular and of humanity in general. He bears his own sorrows, but those of others crush him. He feels each blow delivered at humanity to be delivered first at his own heart. He feels himself so deeply and inwardly connected to creation that once he said: "Whenever I see a leaf fall from its branch in autumn, I feel as much pain as if my arm had been amputated."