

[Get free] Religion and Peacebuilding (Sunny Series in Religious Studies)

Religion and Peacebuilding (Sunny Series in Religious Studies)

*From Brand: State University of New York Press
ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

 Download

 Read Online

#1707944 in Books State University of New York Press 2004-01-08Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.00 x .74 x 6.04l, 1.00 #File Name: 0791459349328 pages | File size: 30.Mb

From Brand: State University of New York Press : Religion and Peacebuilding (Sunny Series in Religious Studies) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Religion and Peacebuilding (Sunny Series in Religious Studies):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Nice to read about peace efforts.By Sophia V.I had to get this book for a class on religion and violence. It was enjoyable when we delved into this book and explored efforts towards building peace in religion. Overall enjoyable and enlightening nonfiction.

Acknowledging that religion can motivate both violence and compassion, this book looks at how a variety of world religions can and do build peace. In the wake of September 11, 2001 religion is often seen as the motivating force behind terrorism and other acts of violence. Religion and Peacebuilding looks beyond headlines concerning violence perpetrated in the name of religion to examine how world religions have also inspired social welfare and peacemaking activism. Leading scholars from the Aboriginal, Hindu, Buddhist, Confucian, Jewish, Muslim, and Christian traditions provide detailed analyses of the spiritual resources for fostering peace within their respective religions. The contributors discuss the formidable obstacles to nonviolent conflict transformation found within sacred texts and living traditions. Case studies of Northern Ireland, Bosnia, Cambodia, and South Africa are also examined as practical applications of spiritual resources for peace. "This book grows on you and merits more than a quick read. Due to its scope, it offers an abundance of useful insights and ramifications. There can be no doubt as to the significance of this book." Robert D. Baird, editor of Religion in Modern India "The book's recommendations to political, religious, and non-governmental leaders 'who seek to take initiatives to promote peace' are of profound significance and provide guidelines toward appropriate action in some of the most entrenched conflict areas of the world." Robert M. Garvin, University at Albany, State University of New York Contributors include R. Scott Appleby, Andrea Bartoli, Judith A. Berling, H. Russel Botman, Judy Carter, Harold Coward, Frederick M. Denny, Diane D'Souza, Rajmohan Gandhi, Marc Gopin, Patrick Grant, Douglas M. Johnston, David Little, Catherine Morris, Eva K. Neumaier, Michelene E. Pesantubbee, and Gordon S. Smith.

"This book grows on you and merits more than a quick read. Due to its scope, it offers an abundance of useful insights and ramifications. There can be no doubt as to the significance of this book." From the Back Cover In the wake of September 11, 2001 religion is often seen as the motivating force behind terrorism and other acts of violence. Religion and Peacebuilding looks beyond headlines concerning violence perpetrated in the name of religion to examine how world religions have also inspired social welfare and peacemaking activism. Leading scholars from the Aboriginal, Hindu, Buddhist, Confucian, Jewish, Muslim, and Christian traditions provide detailed analyses of the spiritual resources for fostering peace within their respective religions. The contributors discuss the formidable obstacles to nonviolent conflict transformation found within sacred texts and living traditions. Case studies of Northern Ireland, Bosnia, Cambodia, and South Africa are also examined as practical applications of spiritual resources for peace. About the Author Harold Coward is with the Centre for Studies in Religion and Society at the University of Victoria and is the author and editor of many books, including most recently Yoga and Psychology: Language, Memory, and Mysticism, also published by SUNY Press. Gordon S. Smith is Director of the Centre for Global Studies at the University of Victoria and the author and editor of many books, including (with Daniel Wolfish) Who Is Afraid of the State?: Canada in a World of Multiple Centres of Power.