Joseph Smith claims that some of the Children of Israel got into a boat about 600 B.C. and made their way to America. This is briefly mentioned in Quest for America and then dismissed. It is said that these folks are the ancestors of the American Indians, though DNA studies do not find this to be possible. It says that there were three times that this voyage was take. It is often said that boat construction of the day was not capable of surviving an ocean trip like that. None-the-less, a Golden Bible was buried in a hill in the state of New York by an angel Moroni that contains the histories of these peoples who killed themselves into extinction except for one person who wrote the tales. Then Jesus, after his death in Israel came to Americas. Some say he was Quetzalcoatl. Then Joseph Smith retrieved the book and translated it from the reformed Egyptian language which people say does not exist until Book of Mormon. There is mention of plural marriage and that the New Jerusalem will be in Independence, Missouri. Of particular interest to me was the mention it was thought that there were inhabitants of the Moon. An absolute load of information to consider and ponder. Concludes with testimony of an ex-Mormon and their experiences. 0 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Sorry but no. By celestial3 Sorry to have to say that this is the usual comments by people who never where willing to change their lives by giving up worldly addictions to follow God, and the same attacks that have long been answered. Why are people who claim to believe in God so afraid to kneel down and just ask him if a teaching is the truth? They want to claim he exists and that they have insight or authority God never gave them. If God make his presence felt, it would prove he was real, and they would have to admit what they don't want to. If you want to know the truth about God, ask him to lead you to those who know the truth. But also ask him to give you the understanding to recognize truth from mistrust.

In the early 1820s a young boy named Joseph Smith claimed that God the Father and Jesus Christ appeared to him and told him to found a new church. Thus began Mormonism, a faith that has grown to thirteen million members worldwide. The Mormon Contradiction: In Their Own Words offers the reader an insight into what the Mormon Church is really all about, including: Where the Book of Mormon really came from Joseph Smith's personal history and use of Occultism and Freemasonry The original accounts of what happened to Smith's apostles during visions, as related by them The Masonic and Occult roots of Mormon Temple ceremonies and oaths, including the use of Occult symbols in the architecture of the Salt Lake Temple The Book of Abraham proven to be a fabrication Who The Danites were The original versions of LDS revelations, including the doctrine of polygamy and the Manifesto DNA evidence proving the Book of Mormons history of Native Americans to be false Linguistic and anthropological studies proving there was no migration of Jews to the New World.

About the Author Marcia Van Outen was raised Roman Catholic. As a young mother in her 20s she converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, more commonly known as the Mormon Church. Having received what she perceived to be a witness through the power of the Holy Ghost (an experience referred to in the Mormon Church as a testimony) she became convinced she had found God's true church. As a devout member Marcia devoted nearly all of her time, talents and efforts into studying its doctrines. She spent most of her years as a church teacher and participated regularly in rituals in the Mormon Temple. In what were to become the latter years of her membership, she became mentally and physically ill due to spiritual persecution from church officials. As a result of her treatment by those who called themselves God's representatives, Marcia began to wonder how someone could be made to suffer so much in a church that bore the name of Jesus Christ and boldly claimed to be the only true church on Earth. While conducting her research into the origins of the church and, in particular, its beginnings in early 19th Century America, she discovered that the seeds of contradiction and deception which one hundred and fifty years later, and a continent away, would bring her so much sorrow, were planted at the outset and that the evidence was to be found in its very own records. The Mormon Contradiction: In Their Own words is the book that she wished she could have had during her own exhaustive and emotional research.
